

VERY EARLY ONSET IBD:
GENETICS, IMMUNOLOGY AND PATIENT CARE

PROGRAMME

SATURDAY 17 SEPTEMBER - CLOSED MEETING FOR SPEAKERS ONLY

12:00 Arrival and refreshments, Kennedy Institute of Rheumatology, Oxford

12:30 Welcome Chair: Holm Uhlig (Oxford, UK)

Workshop: Oxford classification of monogenic IBD

12:40 Latest evidence on known high impact genetic defects that cause IBD

Which functional pathways are key to intestinal inflammation?

Gene phenotype ontology

15:00 Tea

High risk groups: guidelines for genetic screening

Transplantation and gene therapy

18:00 Close

18:30 Reception and dinner - Faculty

Corpus Christi College

VERY EARLY ONSET IBD: GENETICS, IMMUNOLOGY AND PATIENT CARE

PROGRAMME

SUNDAY 18 SEPTEMBER

07:45 Registration, University Examination Schools, Oxford

08:30 Welcome Holm Uhlig (Oxford, UK)

Very early onset IBD

08:35 Epidemiology of very early onset IBD Corinne Gower-Rousseau (Lille, France)

09:05 Epithelial defects with monogenic IBD Aleixo Muise (Toronto, Canada)

09:35 IL10 signalling defects Dror Shouval (Israel)

10:05 Neutrophils in intestinal inflammation Kaan Boztug (Vienna, Austria)

10:35 Coffee

Keynote lecture

11:00 From mouse models to human immunology Fiona Powrie (Oxford, UK)

Genetics and systems approaches

11:50 Polygenic IBD genetics and gene networks Luke Jostins (Oxford, UK)

12:20 Classification of monogenic IBD: functional pathways and phenotype ontology Holm Uhlig (Oxford, UK)

12:50 Lunch

Emerging therapies

13:45 Short presentations

14:15 Nutrition in IBD: driver and therapeutic opportunity Sibylle Koletzko (Munich, Germany)

14:45 Tea

15:15 Haematopoietic stem cell transplantation in monogenic IBD Jochen Kammermeier (London, UK)

15:45 Gene therapy: where are we in 2016? Scott Snapper (Boston, US)

16:15 Closing remarks Holm Uhlig (Oxford, UK)

The Oxford IBD MasterClass this year is one of a trio: Very Early Onset-IBD (this programme), the IBD MasterClass on Early IBD (19-20 September) and the IBD Endoscopy MasterClass (20-21 September).
